attractions

What are the places of interest?

Coorg is a veritable paradise in the hills, with stunning vistas to take in at every twist and turn. Sights to see include the Abbey Falls and Harangi Dam, as well as Omkareshwar Temple, the Tibetan Monastery and Bagamandala Temple. Experience the vibrancy of festivals such as Huttari, the Coorgi harvest festival (November-December) and Dusshera (September-October). Sample some of Coorg's renowned produce – the finest coffee in India as well as wealth of honey and traditional spices.

Abbey Falls

Just 7 km from Madikeri town is the Abbey Falls, as remarkable and striking as you would see anywhere. The narrow road to Abbey Falls is a combination of steep ups & downs, twists & turns, wriggling through the green & dense foliage of surrounding coffee plantations.

Tala Cauvery

Tala Cauvery is the point of origin of the famous cauvery river. It is 45km from Madikeri and also offers a spectacular view. Taking a bath here on Sankaramana day in October is said to give long term physical and spiritual benefits.

Dubare Elephant Camp

Located 42 kms from the resort on the way to Kushalnagar. This is an Elephant training camp, where you get a chance to give bath to Elephants and get to feed them

Tibetan Monasteries

Located 42 kms from the Resort on Madikeri Bangalore highway at Bylukuppe, this is the second largest monastery in India where you get to meet Tibetan monks. The place is famous for its recently built 'Namdrolling Monastery' golden temple.

Shopping Areas

Coffee and Coorg honey, especially wild honey sold on the way to Talacauvery.

Which are some of the local festivals?

Kaveri Shankaramana Observed in October, this festival is associated with the river Cauvery, which has a very big influence in a Kodava's life. As agriculturists, their entire economy and prosperity depends on availability of water, amply provided by the river Cauvery, which flows through the district.

On this auspicious day in October at a pre-determined time, mother Cauvery springs like a fountain from a small tank and fills the bigger holy tank in Talacauvery, the point of origin of the river. People throng the place in thousands to take a holy dip in this water. This water is filled in bottles and reaches every house in Kodagu and this is treated as Theertha - meaning holy water.

Puthari (Huthari) is the traditional harvest festival known for a variety of folk songs and dances being displayed. It is observed in November/December. Each village presents its own set of discipline and dances during the annual fairs at its temple, which is the main centre of cultural activities. When the Paddy Crop is ready for the harvest, a little crop is cut, bound in small bunches and handed out to all those present to be taken home and preserved as a sign of prosperity.
